

AND THE Survey Says...

How satisfied are the students at Oklahoma State University?

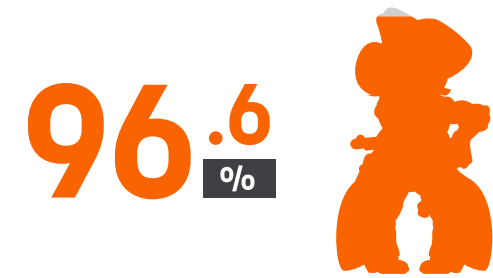

How satisfied are students with the quality of teaching at Oklahoma State University? How often do students motivate themselves to learn at OSU? These were two of the 30 questions that more than 5,000 students from the Stillwater and Tulsa campuses answered earlier this year as part of the OSU Student Satisfaction and Engagement Survey. The survey gathers student feedback in academics, campus life, and campus services to improve student experiences and services.

All 25,172 students on the Stillwater and Tulsa campuses were invited to participate in the survey between March 24 and May 4, 2025. 5,571 — or 26.2 percent — completed all the questions and were included in the final analysis.

Most Engaged Academic Areas

Doing their best with their responsibilities in group work

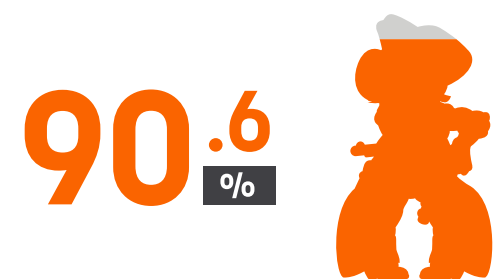

Attending classes

Spending enough time and effort to learn course material

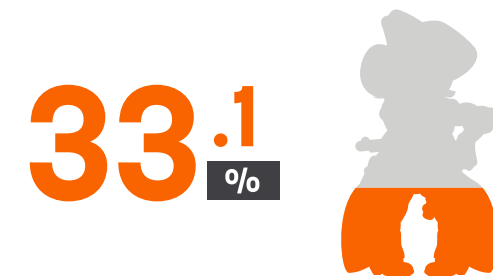

Motivating themselves to learn

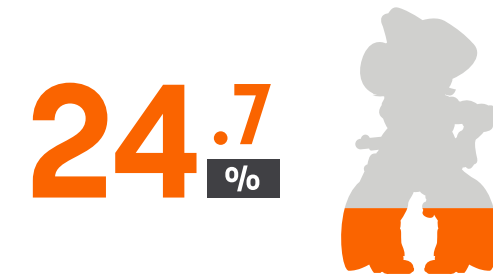

Feel safe on campus

Most Disengaged Academic Areas

Discussing course topics, ideas, or concepts with a professor outside of class

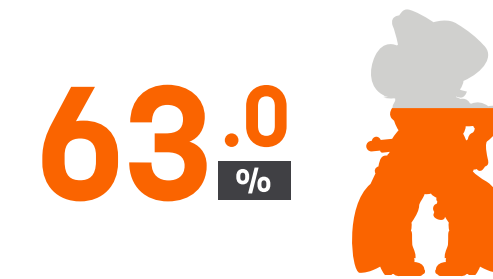

Talking about career plans with career services, faculty, or advisors

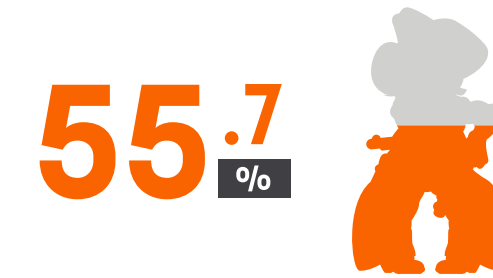

Asking other students to help understand course material

Most Involved Student Activities

OSU student groups or groups in the community

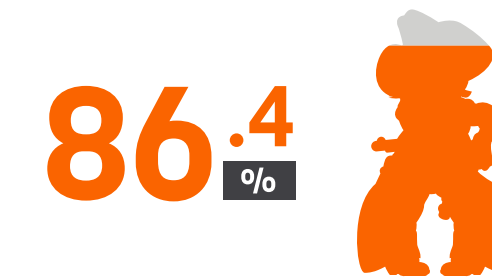

Gaining field experience (e.g., internship, part-time job, student teaching, clinical placement, or other)

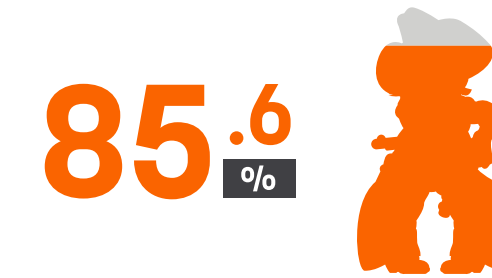

Community-based projects (e.g., volunteering)

Exceeding Expectations

Intellectual growth

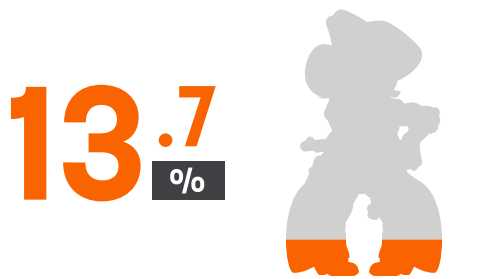

Quality of teaching

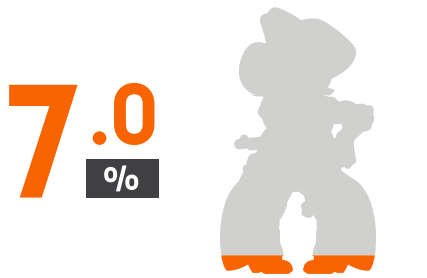

Availability of faculty

Gaining Insights for Improvements

Availability of courses needed for degree program

Sense of belonging

Feedback about academic progress

“ The faculty are really amazing and deserve to be recognized more for their amazing contributions to OSU and its community. ”

“ OSU has provided me a safe environment to further my education. ”

“ I love OSU landscape! It's so refreshing to go outside and see nature while studying/ stressing out about school. ”

STUDENT FEEDBACK

Very Satisfied, Always, Yes